

James C. Miller III Appointed to Clean Energy Board of Directors

Veteran Government, Private Sector and Academic Leader Currently Chairs U.S. Postal Service Board of Governors

Seal Beach, CA (June 19, 2006) - Clean Energy has named James C. Miller III, former Director of the U.S. Office of Management and Budget, as a member of the company's board of directors.

Currently serving as Chairman of the Board of Governors of the United States Postal Service (USPS), Mr. Miller previously was Chairman of the CapAnalysis Group, an economic, financial and regulatory consulting firm associated with the international law firm Howrey, LLP. As the former Director of the U.S. Office of Management and Budget, Mr. Miller was a member of the President's Cabinet and a member of the National Security Council (1985-1988.) From 1981 to 1985, he chaired the U.S. Federal Trade Commission.

"We are honored that Jim has chosen to bring his consummate experience and top-level leadership skills to help Clean Energy achieve our national clean transportation mission. We look forward to his insights and his contributions to our continued evolution and growth," said Andrew J. Littlefair, Clean Energy's President and CEO.

Mr. Miller formerly held the post of Vice Chairman of the U.S. Administrative Conference, and is a distinguished Fellow at both the Center for the Study of Public Choice and the Mercatus Center at George Mason University. He is a Senior Fellow (by courtesy) of the Hoover Institution at Stanford University, and is an Emeritus Member of the Boards of the Tax Foundation, and the Progress and Freedom Foundation. Mr. Miller has also authored more than 100 articles in professional journals and has authored, co-authored or edited nine books.

In addition to Mr. Miller, members of Clean Energy's Board of Directors include: Boone Pickens, founder of BP Capital, Mesa Petroleum and Pickens Fuel Corp. (predecessor company to Clean Energy); Warren Mitchell, former Chairman and President of the Southern California Gas Company; David Demers, founder and CEO of Westport Innovations, Inc.; John Herrington, former U.S. Secretary of Energy and former Chairman of Harcourt, Brace, Jovanovich, Inc.; Andrew J. Littlefair, President and CEO of Clean Energy and Chairman of the Natural Gas Vehicle Coalition; and Kenneth Socha, Senior Managing Director, Perseus Capital.

About Clean Energy

Based in Seal Beach, CA, Clean Energy is the leading provider of vehicular natural gas (CNG and LNG) and related services in North America. It has a broad customer base in the refuse, transit, shuttle, taxi, police, intrastate and interstate trucking, airport and municipal fleet markets with tens of thousands of vehicles fueling at strategic locations across the United States and Canada. The company operates a fleet of 42 LNG tankers carrying fuel interstate to more than 30 vehicle fleet and industrial customers. Clean Energy is a private company whose major shareholders include Boone Pickens, Perseus Capital and Westport Innovations Inc. (TSE: WPT). Information at: www.cleanenergyfuels.com

Contact:

Christine Thomas, Russell Communications Group,
310/559-4955, ext. 103 christinethomas@ruscom.com

Historical Information

Note to Readers: The press releases, presentations and printed remarks and materials are included on this web site for historical purposes only. The information contained in these documents should be considered accurate only as of the date of the relevant document. This information may change over time. Visitors to this web site should not assume that the information contained in these documents remains accurate at a later time. We do not have any current intention, and expressly disclaim any obligation, to supplement, update or revise any of the information in these documents.